

A Doubter's Prayer

Words by Anne Bronte
Music by Jonathan Senigaglia

Largo, softly $\text{♩} = 40$ mp pp mp

SATB & Piano

1 E - ter - nal force of earth and air, un - seen, yet — seen in all a - round, re - 2 Then hear me now, while knee - ling here; I lift to — thee my heart and eye and 3 What shall I do if all my love, my hope, my — toil, are cast a - way, and 4 Oh help me God for thou a - lone canst my dis - trac - ted soul re - lieve; for -

5 mf mp pp

mote, but — dwel - ling ev' - ry - where, though si - lent — heard in — ev' - ry — sound. If all my — soul as - cends in prayer; oh give me, — give me — faith I — cry! While if there — be no God a - bove to hear and — bless me — when I — pray? If sake it — not, it is thine own, though weak yet — long - ing — to be - lieve. (fine)

9 f

e'er thine ear in mer - cy bent when wret - ched mor - tals cried to thee, and faith is with me I am blest; it turns my dar - kest night to day; but this be vain de - lu - sion all, if death be an e - ter - nal sleep, and 13 mp mf pp f D.C. al fine mp

if in - deed thy — son was sent to save lost — sin - ners such — as — me, while I clasp it — to my breast I of - ten — feel it slip — a - way.
none can hear my — se - cret call, or see the — si - lent tears — I — weep.